

Animals killed in development

THE development between Trinity Beach and Trinity Park is inappropriate. The habitat will be destroyed and there are going to be problems with

Cairns Post
26th November 2003

homeless animals living on top of people and getting killed on the roads.

Since work began I have seen more wallabies killed on the roads near home than usual. We forget about the animals and the effect it could have on our ecosystem.

There are already hectares of land mucked up by cane-farming and other forms of development. Why has this extra clearing been allowed?

Instead of wasting money on more housing and canals, which just adds to the tally of road kills and habitat destruction, maybe we should be thinking about the wildlife.

Everything falls to pieces if we don't care for our environment. It is far more important than money.

— Tahnee Lawson, Manus St, Trinity Beach.